Manistee Campground Undergoing Expansion

Area Forester Bill Tarr of the Michigan Conservation Forestry Division reports that modernization and expansion of the Manistee River state forest campground located six miles west of Grayling on M-72 has begun. The construction firm of Pickett and Schreier made a bid of $8,680 for renovation of the camp and construction of 24 new sites, as well as moving the road going into the campground away from the river bank. The road now being used by the public also serves private property and the new road should eliminate the public using private roads. A house-to-house drive will be conducted in Grayling, Karen Woods and the North Park Sub-Division on Monday the 23rd. Stands will be set up at the A & P Store, Glen's Market and the Black & White Market during the next two weeks for those who live outside the house-to-house drive area.

SHERIFF'S DEPT. REPORT

Sheriff Arthur Clough reports the following activities for his department. Early Tuesday morning a steel truck driven by Blaine Simons of Ellsworth was driving east about 7 miles on M-72 west of Grayling. When he approached a parked pickup the bright lights were turned on and two subjects began throwing rocks, breaking the windshield. The driver reported to Sheriff Clough who in turn alerted the State Police and Kalkaska County Sheriff. As of press time the two subjects had not been located.

Meet Boyne City Ramblers There Friday Night

Friday the 13th unlucky? Not so, for the Vikings. The Grayling gridders came through in fine style last Friday evening, defeating the East Jordan-Red Devils 20 to 13.

This was the first time in over 10 years that the Vikings have been victorious in their homecoming game.

Despite rain falling off and on throughout the game there was an enthusiastic homecoming crowd to cheer the Vikings to victory.

(Crawling hit pay dit in he first quarter after a pass from Mike Smock to Allen Lowe put the ball on the 20 yard line, Dave Bailey made a first down, then Smock scored. Paul King ran the ball for the extra point.

In the second quarter East Jordan came back and scored with 2 minutes remaining on the clock. Their extra point was missed when Grayling's line held on a plunge.

Following the kickoff the Vikings marched down the field with Vern Hartman scoring from 15 yards out with a pass from Smock. King again ran the extra point and Grayling led 14-6 with 16 seconds remaining in the first half.

The Vikings received the kickoff to start the second half. After exchange of punts, Smock intercepted a pass. Following two plays, Bailey scored from three yards out. The extra point was missed.

The Red Devils came storming back and scored on a quarterback sneak. They made the XP, on the second try after a penalty against Grayling on the first, to leave the score 20-13.

Following the kickoff the Vikings were forced back and with 6 minutes remaining, Benny Pettijohn boomed a punt out of his zone close to the 50 yard line. East Jordan later fumbled and Smock recovered and the Vikings ran out the clock for their first conference victory.

Mike Smock was named the outstanding player as he scored 1 TD, passed for a TD and set up another and made the key interception.

Coach Wieland said Chauncey Carr was outstanding in the middle of the line, and the rest of the squad all played good hard football.

The line provided good blocking for the runs of King and Bailey. King made over 100 yards rushing and Bailey netted over 200 yards rushing and on kickoff returns.

There were no major injuries in the game but Paul Mauren was hurt during practice last week and missed the East Jordan game. Coach Wieland said it is possible that Mauren will be lost for the remainder of the season, with a blood clot in his leg. Otherwise the team is nursing minor injuries.

In other conference games Charlevoix remained undefeated by shutting out Harbor Springs, 31-0. Gaylord defeated Mancelona 34-0 and Boyne City rolled over Pellston 46-7.

The Vikings will travel to Boyne City this Friday night. The Ramblers are tied for second place with Gaylord. Other conference games will have Mancelona at Harbor Springs, Pellston at East Jordan and Charlevoix at Gaylord.

This Thursday night, Oct. 19th the Grayling JV's will host the Petoskey St. Francis JV's at the Memorial Field. The game is slated to start at 7:00 p.m. The JV's will be out to extend their winning streak to 11 games.

On October 27th when the Pellston Hornets invade Vikingland, the school is planning a Father's Night. At halftime, fathers of Varsity players along with winners of the Punt, Pass and Kick contest will be honored.

Bank to Give Time-Temp.

The Grayling State Bank will soon have a new service for the community with the installation of a time/temperature unit on the bank building. The unit will give the exact time and temperature at five second intervals. It will be recessed above the bank window and will have a sunscreen for greater visibility. The unit will be installed locally by Design Signs.

Boys at Camp LaVictoire Sponsor Korean Orphan Thru Compassion

In May, 1964 the boys of Camp LaVictoire applied to Compassion, Inc. for sponsorship of a Korean Orphan. Compassion is a Christian organization which finds American sponsors for thousands of Korean children who have been left homeless. During June, 1964 the boys "adopted" Hwang Jong Ki and agreed to send $10.00 each month which provides him with the basic necessities in that country. All of the boys who were in the original group have been gone for over two years. However, the idea has been perpetuated and the boys continue to chip in part of their weekly earnings of $1.50 toward maintaining "their brother." Support of the orphan comes entirely from the boys' personal accounts.

At the time the Camp LaVictoire boys began sponsorship of Ki, the little Korean boy was only 8 years old. Both of his parents were dead and he was found wandering around without a home. Now he is living in a Compassion orphanage near Pusan with about 100 more children.

The boys correspond with Ki and their little "brother's" translated messages come to the camp on a regular basis. This contact seems to be meaningful to Ki as well as the boys at camp. One boy continues to write Ki, after he left camp and went home. The Korean Orphan Project at camp has given some boys their first real feeling of helping another person and helps them realize they have much to be thankful for, even though their own situation may seem difficult.

On November 6, at 7:30 p.m. the boys are going to sponsor a Korean Orphan Tour group. This group consists of six Korean children from Compassion orphanages and two Korean adults. More about this meeting will appear later.

ATKINSON - GOLNICK WED AT ST. MARY'S

St. Mary's Church was the setting for the eleven o'clock Nuptial High Mass which united Miss Karen Marie Atkinson and Karl Emil Golnick in marriage on Saturday, September 9, 1967 before 300 relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Reverend Father William F. McKnight. Music was by the junior choir accompanied by Sister Janet Brown at the organ. Sprays of white gladioli decorated the church, with three long-stemmed red roses placed at the feet of the Virgin Mary.

Karen is the daughter of Mrs. Alex Atkinson of Karen Woods, Grayling and the late Mr. Atkinson. Karl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Golnick of 804 Ogema Street, Grayling.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Stuart Rutledge of Roscommon, the bride chose a traditional gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The dainty scalloped neckline blended into long sleeves of lace. Inserts of lace decorated the front of the full skirt which swept back into a rose of bombazine and lace topped the ruffle - tiered cathedral train. A crown of seed pearls and bugle beads caught her waist-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white roses attached to a missal.

Matron of honor Mrs. Robert Golnick was attired in a dark blue brocade dress with round neckline and cap sleeves. With it she wore a single strand pearl necklace. Her flowers were miniature white mums with baby rose leaves set off by a ring of blue netting and white streamers. Bridesmaids Miss Minnie Sedgewick and Mrs. Gene Woodman of Grand Rapids were identically gowned in pale blue brocade. Their flowers were the same as the matron's.

Serving as best man was Robert Golnick, brother of the bridegroom. Claude Golnick and Harold Golnick, also brothers of the bridegroom, were groomsmen, with Marshall Atkinson, brother of the bride, James McClain, James Duley and Lawrence Balch, Jr. seating the guests.

Mrs. Atkinson-chose an aqua lace sheath dress over satin with matching accessories. Mrs. Golnick wore beige lace over satin in A-line style with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of baby pink and white roses.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at seven o'clock at the Grayling Bowhunters Club. A buffet dinner for approximately 450 guests was served. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Golnick left on a week's honeymoon through southern Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

For her going-away attire Mrs. Golnick wore a green knitted suit with gold accessories, set off by black shoes and purse. The center of her bridal bouquet detached to make her corsage. Karen is a 1962 graduate of Grayling High School, her husband graduated in 1958 and served for five years in the U.S. Army. He is presently employed with the Fuelgas Company. The couple is residing at Lake Margrethe.

Out of town guests here to attend the wedding and reception were from Roscommon, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Belding, Greenville, St. Ignace, Cheboygan, Boyne City, Oxford, Milford, Howell, Midland, Muskegon, Traverse City and Mt. Village, Idaho.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Following is a letter to the Avalanche from Treasa and Norval Stephens describing their trip to Alaska this summer:

I didn't think I would ever see the day we would be going to Alaska but here we are. We left home Sept. 3rd in the afternoon with station wagon and camper trailer. Drove to Van Riper state park west of Champion in the U.P. and camped. Traveled about 300 miles from Grayling that day. Monday bright and early found us on our way again thru Duluth and to International Falls where we stayed all night. Tuesday crossed into Canada. Beautiful scenery of mountains and wild flowers and fall coloring. Took pictures near Kenora. The highway by-passed Winnipeg so we drove west about sixty miles to a Provincial Park on the Assiniboine River. Here we met people from Traverse City on their way home. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey. It was very hot this day, 80 degrees in Manitoba and 87 in Moose Jaw, Sask. We had electrical hookup in this park. The roads in this part of Manitoba are cement and very rough on a trailer as you feel you are galloping down the highway. The road isn't broken or chattered but they must have put the cement in in cold weather.

We entered Saskatchewan on Wednesday and set our time back two hours slower than E.S.T. We went off our route to see the new Gardiner Dam which is still in the process of being built. When finished it will be one of the largest dams in North America. We drove 493.4 miles this day but it was dark when we found a place to park, near Outlook, Sask. on the Saskatchewan River. All through Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta—nothing—but wheat fields for miles and miles and the temp. stayed at the record high of 97.

We saw some wild geese in a wheat field just before dark while looking for a place to park. In the Provincial parks they do not have any kind of hookup for a trailer. They have central wash houses and picnic tables and outhouses. You park wherever you can find room, but there was plenty of room this time of year. Friday we drove 461 miles to reach Dawson Creek, but on our way near White Court we had a little scare. As we topped a hill on good pavement, suddenly on the downhill grade the road became wavy with dips in it which threw our trailer into swaying. Norval was able to control it by speeding up a bit and applying the trailer brakes. We stayed in Dawson Creek over night and Saturday we taped the windows and all seams hoping to keep out dust. Also put heavy cardboard over the trailer front and windows on the passing side to protect them from flying gravel at the suggestion of our grandson Jeffrey who has been over the road and knows what it is like. A very good suggestion as we were to find along the way from other campers who hadn't taken the precaution. We also did some laundry while stopped here. Got started about noon on the gravel Alaskan highway. It is a good gravel road but like all gravel it gets rough with lots of travel, especially large freight and oil trucks. Camped near a river at the foot of a mountain, a beautiful spot. This is in the northern range of the Rocky Mts. We scraped ice off the windshield Sunday. We traveled thru mountain country all day and in spite of all taping our trailer was too dusty to sleep in that night so we stayed in a cabin on the Laird River campground and saw our first moose, a cow and calf. The hot springs are really hot, in some places 120 degrees.

Monday morning we continued on, 415 miles to reach White Horse, Yukon where we expected mail from John and also thought he might meet us. We entered Yukon territory at 10:30 a.m. and set our time back another hour. As we left B.C. and entered Yukon a big moose ran across the road and there was no chance for pictures, they popped out of the brush on one side and back into it on the other. Up to now we had traveled thru parts of five Provinces. We arrived at White Horse just at 6 o'clock but the General Delivery window was closed so we didn't get our mail until morning. Went to a gas station where we were able to borrow a vacuum-sweeper and clean the inside of our trailer so we could live in it. We just parked along the Yukon River for the night and went to bed. Next morning a letter from John said he expected to meet us Monday night. This was Tuesday and we had watched all around where he might be and didn't see him. We wanted to take the Miles Canyon trip so found a trailer park and hooked up to lights, water and sewer and went looking. About late afternoon my slow thinking prompted me to call the police and ask if they had a message for us, and sure enough John had sent one he couldn't meet us there. The next day was rainy and cold and when we went to get tickets for the canyon trip the boat owner had decided that with lack of customers—and bad weather—he wouldn't make the trip that day. So we started on to Alaska. We had lost one and a half days of our traveling time plus our disappointment. About four o'clock we met two road graders piling the gravel into the center of the road and over on our side, so we had to cross through the loose gravel and soon after had a flat tire. A sharp stone cut a hole in it. Had to change in the middle of the road as there was no place to go. There are no shoulders on the Alcan. It is graded wide enough for cars to pass but drops abruptly on either side. There was no place open where we could get the tire fixed so we continued around Klunene (pronounced Kloo-nee) Lake at the foot of Sheep Mountain. It was getting dark so we camped. Klunene Lake is the largest in the Yukon, 154 square miles and follows or parallels the Klunene Mountain range for forty miles. On the north end is Destruction Bay, so named because of the many lives lost there during the gold rush days. The tops of these mountains are all covered with snow. Got on our way early the next morning and stopped at the first station where we came to have the tire fixed. The coloring has been beautiful. All the aspen and cottonwood trees and tagelders are golden yellow, the spruce are green and the ground cover on the mountain sides is red. Above the timber line is solid rock.

We had gone over some rough road and just before noon the trailer hitch broke loose on tow corners from the bumper but was still attached under the car so we were able to drive slowly until we found a place to pull off and unhitch, then drove back 13 miles to a repair shop where the man was kind enough to leave what he had been doing to repair our hitch. Norval helped him and they reinforced it and we were on our way again, but lost another three hours including lunch time. We had thought to reach John's place by night but only got as far as Eagle River, 14 miles before Anchorage. We had to travel thru mountainous roads in rain and fog behind heavy army equipment for a time until we could get by. The Army had been to Fairbanks helping flood victims. All Alaska has had a lot of rain since August. All streams are flowing full and some overflowing. After we stopped for the night we called John, then tried to find some friends but they were out. John told me on the phone it was a four-hour drive from Anchorage to his place anyway. The next morning we went on and drove in to Portage Glacier, which is beautiful. Took some pictures which I hope will be good. Saw some results of the earthquake where the earth shifted and settled and left houses half buried. The old telephone poles look like they were sunk in mud half way up. We got to Sterling at Moose River about 2:30. This is where John has his canoe rental and summer camp. In the winter he moves into Soldatna where he designs and paints signs. Starting in October he is scheduled to teach a class on commercial art at their Junior College.

Sunday, there being no church of our faith as yet in that area, John took us to the Russian Orthodox church—originated when the Russians owned Alaska. It is White Russian now. After church we went out past Swanson River and saw the oil rigs in the Cook Inlet. There is a great oil industry in that area. The gold rush in Alaska now is for black gold (oil).

Monday we got our fishing licenses. John was going to take us to the Swanson for silver salmon but went down to the bridge over the Moose River and saw the salmon were running. It was the first run they had had at this point so we all went. John caught one the first cast and let me bring it in, which was a thrill. Then he let me use his rod, a heavy spinning rod. I cast a few times then one hit and I finally got it in where John could help me get it out. It weighed 14 1/2 lbs. to be exact and the one that took the prize in Kenai Labor Day weighed 14 1/2 lbs. Norval also caught another silver and a rainbow trout. John made a smoking fire like the natives and filleted two salmon and smoked them. We took my big one and one other to a neighbor and had her can ours so we could bring it home. We still had one whole salmon wrapped and buried in the permafrost. Before we left to come home John took it in town and put it in the deep freeze. We ate salmon and trout until we were tired of it. Brought some of the smoked salmon with us on our way home. Also Tuesday we were driving along about three miles from where John lives and saw a large light grey timber wolf. There is no open season for shooting them in this area. We were on our way to an area where we could pick wild cranberries, which we did. The three of us got about two gallons. Could have gotten more but the black flies (white sox) were so bad they were hitting the palms of our hands but we had all the berries we could care for. I made a gallon of cranberry juice concentrate from John's recipe which can be diluted one-half. It was very good.

We took so many days to drive over the highway with our trailer we decided to sell it if we could. We enjoyed camping with it but one must have plenty of time because we just can't hurry when driving over rough road with a trailer. So made arrangements to leave it in John's care to be sold in the spring as no one needs them up there now. So had to unpack the trailer and repack the car on Wednesday.

We drove to Anchorage on Wednesday afternoon, went to church Wednesday evening and met more of John's friends. John drove with us to Haines to be with us for a few days more. It is 758 miles from Anchorage to Haines where we got on the ferry. On the way we saw some more moose and flocks of Dall sheep on the mountain sides. Between Haines Junction and Haines City the rains had washed the road out in several places. One place the repair men were towing cars through a very muddy spot with a bulldozer. We were in the mud up to the axles and scraping bottom. Glad we didn't have the trailer but saw other people with trailers pulled through it. John went as far as Juneau where he had reservations with Cordova Air Lines to fly back to Soldatna, and we went on to Prince Rupert.

From Prince Rupert we encountered some more road construction on the road to Prince George but had no trouble. We visited Grand Coulee Dam then on to Yellowstone National Park where we spent one day driving through the park and taking pictures. We drove on from there and reached Fargo, N.D. in time for church Sunday evening. The fall coloring was the most beautiful in Wisconsin and Michigan. The U.P. was at its height, and

School Board Minutes

A report of the minutes of the Crawford AuSable Schools Board of Education.

Sept. 11, 1967

Secretary, Patricia Fowler
The regular meeting of the Crawford AuSable School District, Crawford, Kalkaska, Otsego counties was called to order at the High School offices at 8:10 p.m. by President, Dr. Paul Dosch.

The minutes of the August meetings were read and approved.

After discussion of the financial report invoices No. 697, 737 were approved for payment on motion by Dr. Henig, seconded by Kolka. Carried.

Many items of interest were discussed. The raise for non-teaching staff was set. The extent of the adult education program was discussed. It was decided to start with a limited program and work up to the needs of the community.

Superintendent Stripe explained the student insurance program. The board arrived at some changes to be made in the fine arts department that would cut expenses. The substitute teacher situation was discussed with regard to obtaining permanent staff for the positions not yet filled.

A letter from the school for the deaf was read in consideration of one of our students.

It was decided that Dr. Hoffman should put up his fence at the magic square. If this did not correct his problem we would consider further erection of cyclone fencing. The mean time we will have an access to the magic square from the back side by the wall field. At this point we will like to request that the parents refrain from using Hoffman's driveway as access to the magic square.

Hearing tests for the schools were approved by the board. Pat Harwood was absent. We adjourned at 10:10.

The Airport, An Important Community Asset

From Mayor-Mgr. Magazine

Few communities in the country are immune to the distant rumble of a passenger jetliner as it thrusts its way between the metropolises of our nation. Air travel has grown at a pace undreamed of just a few years ago. Much of this popularity is directly attributable to the introduction of the jet transport. But even with the relative newness of commercial jet transportation, the talk is now of "jumbo jets" and the SST.

Many people, municipal executives included, don't realize that the biggest share of this flying is a part of aviation that most non-flying people rarely hear about. The Federal Aviation Agency reports that almost every second around the clock throughout the year, an airplane takes off or lands somewhere in the United States. Chicago's O'Hare International, the nation's busiest airport, by itself accounts for more than 1200 aircraft operations a day, an average of one airplane taking off or landing each 30 seconds.

The FAA report on the volume of operations is the total from the 300 or so airports having air traffic control towers. There are, however, more than 9,000 airports; thus, the report accounts for the traffic at less than three percent of these!

Bulk of flying is non-commercial

What is probably more surprising is that the bulk of this flying is by individuals and businesses using their own airplanes. Aviation falls into three basic groups — the military, scheduled airlines, and all other flying, termed "general aviation," which is people going places in their own airplanes. For every scheduled airliner in the air, general aviation has 45 airplanes in flight, for each hour the scheduled airlines fly, general aviation "logs" nearly five hours. For every mile flown by the airlines, general aviation travels 2 1/2 miles.

Transportation by private airplane has been growing steadily since World War II, but the fastest strides have come since the mid-fifties when airplane and engine manufacturers made significant developments in speed, ease of handling, and greater seating capacity.

The improvement in airplanes (today's fleet of general aviation airplanes includes two and four engine jet executive transports) is one of the reasons why general aviation has become an important tool of modern business. Decentralization of industry and broader markets require the businessman to travel more, travel farther, and he frequently has less time to do it. He, therefore, turns to air travel.

Scheduled airlines are carrying more and more people in bigger and better equipment. But scheduled service by necessity must be concentrated in the more densely populated areas. Forty-five per cent of all scheduled airline flights are at only ten major metropolitan areas. About one out of three people in the United States live in areas without any kind of scheduled air transportation. General aviation fills the gap both in point-to-point service and by connecting off-route communities with airline centers. Air taxis, charter flights, and personal airplanes feed passengers to the airlines, and make any community with an airport a direct connection to the jet capitals of the world.

Greater dependence on general aviation airplanes and the rapid growth of this segment of flying (last year the industry delivered more than 9,000 new airplanes into the fleet) is causing many communities to take a new look at their airport facilities. "Airports," says Joseph T. Geuting, Jr., Manager of the Utility Airplane Council of Aerospace Industries Association, "can be one of the most important assets a community has."

Backing up Geuting's opinion are numerous studies of criteria for industry locations. One study conducted by the Missouri State Development and Industrial Board, revealed that 39.5 percent of the largest corporations in America required an airport "near their plant locations, and another 45 percent said there must be an airport within 20 miles.

Most firms value airport

"When you convert this to employment," Geuting points out, "it means that better than eight-out-of-ten industries where you and I can get work consider an airport an important ingredient in their operations. Consistently, the availability of an airport shows up among the top five considerations in industry sets down in looking for plant locations." One industry in a Kentucky town found the lack of an airport such a handicap it moved to another city in a bordering state where the plant could be built near an airport.

Residents of big cities and small find the airport pumping economic life into the community. A Southern city without an airport learned that an airplane was such an integral part of one company's operations that a branch factory would not be located in the area unless there was an airport. The city responded by building one at a cost of $153,000. The plant came, employed more than 300 workers, and the retail sales in the city jumped nearly $1,000,000 a year. A mayor of St. Paul, Minnesota has reported that general aviation brings to that area a business volume of $233,000,000 a year which it would not otherwise enjoy. "Every $1,000 of tax money invested in the airport," the mayor continued, "produces in business an excess of $2,000,000 per year."

An economic study made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States sharply points up the total community effect of new industry. For every 100 factory workers given new employment, personal income increases $710,000 and retail sales in the community go up $331,000 a year. There are 97 new passenger cars registered, 3 new retail establishments are opened, and 65 more people employed in non-manufacturing businesses such as real estate, construction, retail trade, professional services, and other fields.

Awareness growing among community leaders

Most community leaders recognize these far-reaching benefits of employment and willingly install new streets, power lines, sewage, and other facilities to encourage industrial growth. With the airplane now a tool of business operation the community airport facilities have become equally important. However, airport development is just beginning.

Of the more than 9,000 airports, six-out-of-ten are privately owned and face high taxes, spiraling land values and, therefore, eventual conversion to shopping centers or housing developments. Only about one-fourth of the airports have paved runways, less than a third have lights for night operation, only 2 percent have instrument landing system installations for all-weather operations.

Many individuals, associations, government agencies, and others are facing up to the problems. The National Airport Plan of the Federal Aviation Agency pinpoints specific areas where airport development is needed. State aviation officials constantly seek to improve existing airports and to build new ones. Other groups are working to not only build new airports but to preserve those existing ones in congested metropolitan centers. One of the most ambitious efforts is that of the Utility Airplane Council. The UAC has prepared information brochures and statistical data to help the non-flying public better understand the community benefits of the airports. "Everyone in a community is directly or indirectly affected by the airport," says UAC's Manager, Joseph Geuting. "The dollars that flow into a community through the airport become local dollars, creating employment, affecting tax structures, community revenues, and expenditures. Because of this, the airport truly is everybody's

by GORDON CHARLES

Ever go on a snipe hunt? No, we don't mean the kind of snipe that pranksters like to use in tricking novices into hunting with a bag on a dark night. What we do mean is Wilson's snipe or Jacksnipe, as they are more commonly called.

This year Michigan will have two snipe seasons, with the first to be an early, experimental model staged during the Sept. 15-23 special teal season. This particular hunt will be for teal permit hunters only and in eight special areas of the state.

If you don't have one of the 8,200 teal permits, you can't go snipe hunting till the regular duck season opens October 9. At that time though, you can hunt them all over the state and, if you are lucky, you can shoot eight every day you hunt.

Wilson's snipe are members of the shorebird family and may be found most frequently in pasture land with puddles of standing water or along the muddy edges of marshes.

Equipped with still-like legs that enable it to wade in shallow water, the snipe has an exceptionally long, slender bill with which it probes in the mud for food particles. These trademarks along with its rather somber brown color and a startled "scarp, scarp" call when flying, makes its identification rather easy.

To look at a group of snipe wading and probing for food, it might look like a simple project to hunt them. You might even think it would be too easy to be any fun. Don't kid yourself!

Are you paying more than 11¢ a gallon
for your home's heating oil?

If you are, you're paying too much.

you are now using natural Gas (or plan to) for cooking, water heating, clothes drying or Gas lights, and your use is equal to that of our average residential non-heating customer, read on. You qualify for our special service rate which gets you Gas for heating at a price equal to fuel oil costing 11¢ a gallon.

Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we will pay for it and its installation by a participating Gas heating contractor. And, except for the Gas you use, it won't cost you a penny for six months after installation.

We'll buy the oil that's in your tank at the price you paid for it. We'll remove the tank from your home at no cost to you, and we'll even haul it away if you want.

Convert to thrifty natural Gas. Then you can start putting your money in the bank. Call us today for the name of a participating Gas heating contractor and full details.

THIS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE... COSTS LESS, TOO.

Downtown merchants, restaurants, and motel owners have advised that it was a busy weekend with downstate crowds approaching the numbers that are in our community during the best summer weekends.

Gasoline distributors advised also that gallonage pumped at area service stations equaled the best summer weekends. The organizations that had booths in the business district did well financially, with one organization reporting profits of nearly $300. Record crowds were also reported at points of interest such as the Fred Bear Museum and Hartwick Pines. Area canoe livers reported excellent business.

Moose Lodge Activities

After the special election held October 6, Art Stephenson was installed as Governor, Ray Carrick as Prelate and Bud Wales as Trustee. Each office was unopposed. During the same evening, Art Stephenson received the coveted Governor's merit award for his last term of office, which means that during the term the lodge showed an increase in membership and net assets. Also Secretary Alfred Hanson, who is retiring at the end of this year, received his 4th gold star award. Strict requirements must be met to qualify for this award.

The lodge has received its good standing certificate, and also a civil affairs certificate from Mooseheart.

At the upper peninsula convention recently, three members received their fellowship degree. They were Jim Love, Ray Carrick and Chuck Stoddard.

Bill Fitzgerald has been in the hospital at Ann Arbor. We understand he is home this week but must go back next week.

Walt Confer, Ray Carrick, Chuck Stoddard and their wives attended the fellowship breakfast meeting at Bay City a week ago Sunday. Mrs. Confer and Mrs. Stoddard were winners of the door prizes for the ladies.

We understand there's something in the wind for a fun-filled night at the club sometime in the near future.

Don't forget, we're trying to burn the mortgage in 1967. A complete report was given at the last meeting and we're a long way from our goal.

Have you donated to our own Moose blood bank recently? You may be the next to need it! Get the details from the lodge secretary.

BITS O' TALK

Honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. Tim Robinson of Livonia spent some time at her grandparents' cabin, the Charles Strand property. Guest of the Strand last week was Mrs. William Holmes of Detroit.

Members of the Hayes Industry of Jackson, for whom Dan and Leta Babbitt were caretakers for 26 years at their AuSable lodge, treated the Babbitts to a farewell party at the lodge October 7th. The affair was a steak dinner, given by Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Vass, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howe, Mr. and Mrs. John Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitling, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Secker, Mr. and Mrs. Don Bender. As their contribution the Babbitts had Mrs. Glen Fenton make an artistic cake replica of the Hayes Lodge, the river and fishermen. Dan and Leta each received a beautiful wrist watch and other gifts from their hosts. The cake was so admired it was taken to Jackson uncut for other members to see and share.

662 Jaycee pumpkins are here. Available at parking lots this weekend or at Chuck Fick home. Don Campbell of the Airfield Maintenance group is at artillery repair school in Aberdeen, Md. He will be finished October 27th. Duane Worden is attending instrument repair school at Aberdeen until December 1st. Jim Dannenberg and Jerry Welch are studying auto repair, through November 9th.

In a real close battle Dan Canfield again won the weekly "King of the Hill" bowling match at Cherven Lanes in Roscommon on Friday night. Going into the 10th frame Ed Cherven with a double up needed another strike but instead he left the 10 pin on a solid hit and then missed it enabling Canfield to retain his title for another week. Letters To The Editor

Grayling, Michigan 10/16/67
Crawford County Avalanche
Attention Editor
Dear Editor:

I would like to add my four bits to the suggestion of a permanent mail on Michigan Ave.

I enjoyed the decorations during the Color Festival; but our nice wide main street is still too narrow for a mall.

First, the minimum width for shrubs and flowers should be 8 feet.

Second, consideration should be given for the added man hours for snow removal. This mall would require manual labor for snow removal, that means more taxes.

Third, I would suggest we continue on the basis of this year for various events, we then can have the use of the entire street all winter.

Very Truly Yours,
Hans L. Peterson

NOTICE
Due to time required to have films developed from the Punt, Pass and Kick Contest staged last weekend there will be no article until the next issue of the Avalanche.

The winners from each age group will be traveling to Clare this weekend to represent Grayling in the Zone competition.

Open House

income units are for those on low income, who have assets of $3,500 or less and need good housing. To qualify for the family low income housing families are expected to be without adequate housing or in sub-standard housing now, or about to be without housing. Example, if their house is being sold. Many people by living in Public housing for a couple years may catch up on their bills etc. to be able to purchase a home of their own. The average American family wants to own their own home. In the case of a woman alone with a family, it is a very hard matter for her to purchase her own home. Her family and she are also deserving of a nice place to live. Mrs. Gould stated. Good housing and sufficient room do much to combat juvenile delinquency.

Applications for the low income housing will be taken about November 15th, Mrs. Gould stated. Some have already applied. The elderly pay a $25 deposit when they move in, and family heads pay a $50 deposit. If good care is taken of apartments and no damage done during renting, the deposit is returned.

There will be many activities in both community rooms for the elderly and also for youth and families. The whole program can do much to help everyone if everyone cooperates.

The Housing Commission is still hoping to have some clubs and organizations offer help with some of the community facilities.

Be sure and come November 5th to the Open House, Mrs. Gould stated.
